Promotoras Activas’ worker-owners lift up their community

The worker-owners at Promotoras Activas San Francisco Cooperative perform vital outreach to San Francisco’s Spanish-speaking community. They bring opportunities for affordable housing, health care, employment, scholarships and more to people who need them most.

Project Equity worked with Mission Economic Development Agency to establish Promotoras Activas with a cooperative structure that distributes profits equitably among all worker-owners. This has enabled many of their worker-owners—all immigrants and mostly women—to earn a regular paycheck for the first time since coming to the U.S., and to do it by helping their community.

“I want to be an inspiration for other Promotoras—to either create more opportunities for them through our coop, or to inspire them to create their own coop so they can continue contributing to their community. They deserve that.”

We also expanded our reach, government partnerships and media footprint.

EXPANSION

Advised business owners in 36 states on becoming employee-owned

Partnered with 9 local governments

Achieved 17 million media impressions

We’re so grateful to those who supported our work in 2022. In 2023 Project Equity is laser focused on expanding the benefits of employee ownership to more low-wage workers, families of color and communities nationwide.

There has never been a better time to support employee ownership and Project Equity.

“We could not be where we are and in the position that we are in right now without Project Equity. Running a coop is a huge responsibility. But if you have Project Equity’s support, then you will probably be a successful business.”

Mercedes Garcia, worker-owner at Promotoras Activas SF
